BOSTON SCHOOL CHILDREN KNOW SURPRISING LOT ABOUT HAWAII

Boston school children have an exceptionally accurate and comprehensive knowledge of Hawaii, and also want to know whether women have the right to vote here, according to George S. Raymond, inspector-general of the territory's schools, who returned yesterday from a seven weeks' trip to the mainland, including a visit to his old home in Cambridge, Mass.

After the Christmas dinner

work. Trades such as tin-smithing, electric wiring, mechanics and carpentering are taught at pre-vocational centers, where boys from several schools assemble.

"Concerning the girls, I found a peculiar condition existing," added Mr. Raymond. "In Boston particularly they do not take advantage of the courses in household arts and home economics, but are taking up the professional, business and art courses. Social and industrial conditions are changing in Boston, and the public schools are in a quandary as to how best to meet the change. One thing seems certain, that girl students are not taking the home-training courses, and the directors are wondering whether the money put into these features has been worth the investment."

Mr. Raymond said that even the grammar school children of Boston were deeply interested in woman suffrage, and wearing pin-brooches and anti-suffrage buttons, as their parents did. "Several of the children asked me whether we had votes for women in Hawaii," he said. "A 12-year-old boy wanted to know if it were true that the Hawaiians are good musicians. I found the children better informed concerning the islands than I myself was when I was in the same grades."

Large quantities of Promotion Committee literature were distributed by Mr. Raymond, who extolled the glories of Hawaii everywhere he went, and showed Honolulu views to pupils. He said nearly every school teacher he talked to expressed a wish to come out here and teach.

CHARGE DELCASSE'S CAREER DEVOTED TO REVENGE ON GERMANY

BERLIN, Germany.—The assertion is made by the Tageblatt that Theophile Delcasse, who recently resigned as foreign minister of France, opposed the landing of French troops at Saloniki.

"Perceiving that popular opinion was turning against him," the Tageblatt adds, "Delcasse seized upon the pretext of the Saloniki expedition as a reason to resign. He was thus able to disappear from the political theatre in the attitude of a man who foresaw calamities and warned the nation, while in reality he, together with President Poincare and War Minister Millerand brought about the present situation."

The Vossische Zeitung says: "Delcasse's whole career was based upon the idea of revenge. He entered parliament with a speech in favor of a

WAY TO MONARCHY DOUBTFUL, SAYS DR. GOODNOW OF CHINA

The way to a Chinese monarchy is blocked by "life," in the opinion of Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, one of the foreign advisers to Yuan's government. Dr. Goodnow recently passed through Honolulu on his way home from Peking. On his arrival in San Francisco he commented:

"If the present government could be turned over to a monarchy without disorder, if a scheme of succession could be worked out and if the monarchy established should be a constitutional monarchy, then I believe that China would make faster and longer strides than as a republic," said Dr. Goodnow.

"The present condition in China is the same as it was in Mexico under President Diaz," he continued. "As long as there is a strong man at the head, all will go well, but if a weak man holds the reins of government the same condition will arise as did in Mexico after Diaz left the country." President Yuan Shih-Kai is opposed to the scheme of a monarchy, according to Dr. Goodnow, and would leave the country and retire to England if such a scheme were carried through. He believes in the republic, but he is old and would shift the responsibility upon younger shoulders if he had the opportunity.

"It is difficult to make a republic with the materials that exist in China," said Dr. Goodnow. "The American people have achieved their present government only through trials, and in China the intelligence of the masses of the people is such that the question of the election of a successor to President Yuan Shih-Kai is fraught with grave possibilities."

"Under the present system three names are placed in a box inside three other boxes by Yuan Shih-Kai. In case he dies the vice-president would succeed until the first name was drawn from the box by the body so empowered. This, however, is not the same as would be a government by a strong man ruling as a monarch and with the succession descending to his son."

"Succession is the one important thing in China. If this can be accomplished and if a constitutional monarchy, rather than an absolute monarchy, established, I believe China will be better off."

Dr. Goodnow left China this time after a stay of only seven weeks. He was constitutional adviser to President Yuan Shih-Kai for a year, more than 12 months ago. Then he came home and promised to go back this year if possible. He says his statement that a constitutional monarchy would be better than a republic had no bearing on his return.

STERN MEASURES FOR OFFICERS OF RUINED CRUISER

(By Associated Press.)
PETROGRAD, Russia.—Russia's way with the inefficient is illustrated in the report of the court-martial which has just sentenced the captain and lieutenant-commander of the Russian cruiser Jemchug, which was destroyed by the Emden at Penang a year ago. Both officers were accused of negligence.

The court found both officers guilty and "taking into consideration their hitherto unblemished record and their brave service during the Russo-Japanese war," passed the following sentence: "Both officers to lose all civil rights to be dismissed from the imperial service and deprived of all decorations. Capt. Baron Tchertakoff to lose his rank of captain and be sent to jail for three and a half years; Lieut. cmdr. Kulibin to be sent to jail for a year and a half."

WIRELESS ORDERS TO CUT OUT STOPS ON ROADS IN FUTURE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Train orders and telegrams delivered to moving trains by wireless telegraphy and the use of the wireless telephone will take the place of the already "antiquated" system of delivery at points of call, according to railway electrical experts now in session at the Hotel La Salle. Fast trains will save valuable time by the elimination of stops for orders, speakers said, the business men will receive communications en route as he now receives them over the telephone in his private office, and electrical headlights will displace the old-style oil or acetylene lights now in use.

ST. LOUIS, Miss.—Prediction that all steam railroads in the United States would be electrified in the next few years was made by M. W. Storer, of New York, in an address to the members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, holding its national convention here.

CIDER TOO FRISKY FOR PARTY AT Y. M. C. A.

DAVENPORT, Ia.—Sweet cider is too strong a drink to be served in the Y. M. C. A. here, according to the decision of seven young people's church societies. Girls of the societies refused to attend the annual Halloween masquerade if it were served, and coffee was substituted.

Many trainloads of wounded Austrians soldiers from Serbia arrived at Ezegeidin, in western Hungary.
